

Share your transplant story

Have you donated an organ or had an organ transplant? Share your story with The Living Donor Storytelling Project.

What is The Living Donor Storytelling Project?

An online library of video stories about organ donation and transplant, made by real people. More than 200 people have shared their stories already!

Why share my story?

Your story could help people who are considering donating an organ or receiving a transplant learn about the process and how to overcome financial barriers.

We want to show stories from people with all kinds of backgrounds and experiences.
